

Dott.ssa Laura Carucci

Medical Doctor, Researcher

Dr. Laura Carucci is a medical doctor, specialist in Allergy and Clinical Immunology, in the last years she has focused her clinical and researcher activity in the area of pediatric food allergy, gastroenterology, and atopic dermatitis.

She received her degrees from University of Rome "La Sapienza", Rome, Italy and medical specialty from University of Naples "Federico II", Naples, Italy. She is member of the Immunonutrition research group at CEINGE-Advanced Biotechnologies. She is author of 8 publications among scientific paper on international journals, chapters of books and reviews and 22 abstract published on international journals. She is member of the Italian Society of Pediatric Allergy and Immunology (SIAIP) (2019-2020), European Academy of Allergy and Clinical Immunology (EAACI) (2015-2020), Italian Society of Allergy and Clinical Immunology (SIAAIC) (2016-2020), Italian Society of Internal Medicine (SIMI) (2017-2019). She has obtained scientific prizes for the research activity: - Travel grant winner at EAACI congress(2018 and 2019); - Travel grant winner at SIAAIC congress (2016-2017 and 2019) -award for the best abstract at EAACI congress (2017). Dr. L. Carucci has focused her research activity on clinical and translation science to better understand the pathogenic and immune tolerance mechanisms of food-induced diseases and provide the best care for children affected by these disorders. Her research activity is based on the study of IgE and non IgE mediated food allergy, and atopic dermatitis, in order to obtain an integrated overview of these diseases from the laboratory to clinical practice.